

“My son tells tall stories.”

Jyoti, mother of Karan Thakkar, Design Architect, Mahindra Gesco.

As a child, Karan dreamt of touching the sky. He'd often ask why we didn't live in a tall building. And I'd tell him that a garden was as important as a house.

He didn't understand.

Then, Karan grew up, topped his architecture school and joined Mahindra Gesco.

He'd tell me, “Ma, my team doesn't create buildings, we build lives.”

I didn't understand.

One day, I visited him at work.

The building was so tall, I could hardly see the top.

He took me right up, and said, “See Ma, from here you can touch the sky.”

I smiled with pride.

Then, I saw the balcony. It was filled with beautiful plants.

“You're right, Ma,” he said. “A garden's important.”

That's when I knew he listened.

I was so proud, I cried.

My son tells me that his big company is looking for many more talented professionals.

You too can join them. And if you work with Karan, do tell him that I'm proud of him.
